Mr. Connolly:

Thank you for sharing with me the idea of Public Talks. I look forward to participating in the up-coming web conference with other student leaders from across the world. This will be an interesting first step towards introducing public talks as a means of resolving dispute and conflict worldwide.

It is clear that private talks and our current methods of resolving conflict are insufficient, and we must look into other methods for the betterment of our world. I hope other universities around the globe catch on and are able to share in this monumental event.

Sincerely,

Will Smelko

President, Associated Students of the University of California
